Schenck, Price, Smith & King LLP Welcomes New Partner to Firm

-Law firm continues remarkable growth in practice areas and people-

Florham Park, NJ -- Schenck, Price, Smith & King LLP is pleased to announce Caroline Record, Esq. has joined the Firm as a Partner in Schenck Price's Community Association Practice Group. Record is the latest hire as the firm is enjoying significant growth, adding 21 attorneys in 2026.

Caroline represents common interest communities in New Jersey and assists association clients with complex contractual negotiations and disputes, including construction defect disputes and the negotiation of transition settlement agreements. She is a strategic advisor to association boards, helping them keep compliance with federal and state laws while balancing fiduciary duties. Her practice focuses on governance issues of associations, where she provides guidance on interpreting, drafting, and revising governing documents, resolutions, rules and regulations, and amendments.

Over the years, Record has received numerous awards and recognition from the community association industry. She was named a Recipient of the Community Associations Institute Excellence in Education Award (2026) Recipient of the Hall of Fame Award from the Community Associations Institute - New Jersey Chapter (2025) Recipient of the President's Award from the Community Associations Institute -

New Jersey Chapter (2014) and Recipient of the Jerome Fien Distinguished Service Award from the Community Associations Institute.

Record is admitted to practice law in New Jersey, New York, and the District of Columbia. She earned her J.D. from Seton Hall University School of Law and her B.A., from Rutgers University.

John E. Ursin, Esq., Schecnk Price's Managing Partner said that the firm's growth in 2026 has been very strategic and focused. We recently added a leading Community Associations group who are off to a great start. To recruit and add a recognized statewide leader in the practice area is a huge win for the firm. Caroline is a wonderful person and will immediately fit into the culture of the firm. She adds strength and depth to an already robust group. I have no doubt that the clients will be impressed and the group will gain market share.

Arnold J. Calabrese, Esq., Partner and Chair of Schenck Price's Community Association Practice Group, welcomed Caroline adding "Caroline is one of the most respected and accomplished attorneys in New Jersey's community association industry, and we are thrilled to welcome her to our growing team. Having known and worked alongside Caroline in the industry for many years, I have tremendous respect for her legal abilities, professionalism, and commitment to the communities she serves. Her experience and reputation complement our existing team exceptionally well and further enhance our ability to provide clients with sophisticated, practical legal counsel backed by the resources of a full-service law firm."
